Conversation

Take turns with your student reading this dialogue out loud.

Renee: Mr. Tam is a wonderful boss. I mean, he “was” a wonderful boss, I guess I should say.

Yeonsu: I hear you. I’m going to miss him, too. He was the kind of boss everyone wanted to work for.

Renee: I know. It’s a shame that the main office is replacing him just like that, after all these years he has worked here and all that he’s done for the company.

Yeonsu: Right. Do you know what’s in store for him now? Obviously we’re going to have a new boss here, but what’s going to happen to Mr. Tam?

Renee: No idea, but I don’t think they’re going to let him go, at least. My guess is he will be relocated somewhere out of town.

Yeonsu: I see. Does that mean he could be transferred to a different country, maybe?

Renee: I don’t see why not... He was a country manager here, so the management may find him useful in another market.

Yeonsu: Wow. After all, maybe he is just a cog in the wheel of this corporation.

Key Expressions

Review these key expressions as they are used in the context of the dialogue.

- 1. I mean 아니, 그게 아니고, ~말이에요
잘못 한 말을 고쳐서 다시 말할 때 사용

I have an appointment this Tuesday. I mean, next Tuesday.
You went to Washington, right? Washington DC., I mean?

이번 화요일, 아니 다음 주 화요일에 약속이 되어 있습니다.
워싱턴에 가셨던 것 맞죠? 워싱턴 DC 말이에요.

- 2. I hear you 무슨 말인지 알아요
상대방의 말에 공감한다는 어감이다.

A: The air is so bad today!
B: I hear you.

오늘 공기 정말 안 좋네!
그러게요.

- 3. it’s a shame 안타까운 일이다
‘부끄러운 줄 알라’ 는 Shame on you 와는 다른 표현이니 주의!

It’s a shame they have to move.
It’s a shame that he has to resign.

그 사람들이 이사를 가야하다니 안타까운 일이다.
그가 사직해야 한다는 사실이 안타깝다.

- 4. after all 결국에는
after all is said and done 이라는 긴 표현과 유사한 의미이다.

After all, all we are is just dust in the wind.
After all, it’s the details that matters.

우리는 결국 바람에 날리는 먼지일 뿐.
결국 중요한 것은 디테일이야.

Conversation

Take turns with your student reading this dialogue out loud.

Renee: Have you heard? The new boss will not just be the country manager, but he's going to be in charge of the entire APAC!

Yeonsu: You mean Mr. Roberts? He's replacing the regional manager, too?

Renee: You got that right. I guess the company is going to focus more on boosting performances.

Yeonsu: Like we haven't been? Why would you say that?

Renee: Because David Roberts is notorious for pushing people to sell more. He's all about numbers!

Yeonsu: Talk about stress... I'm already dreading to meet him.

Renee: I don't look forward to it, either. I also heard that he micromanages, too.

Yeonsu: Wow, that's when I perform the worst – when the boss is breathing down my neck.
